Getting a Job

Information for families about finding work for their family members

People with learning disabilities sometimes find it hard to find paid work.

We worked with Dave Barker at the National Valuing Families Forum to write a guide for families.

The guide is to help families think about how they can help their family members with learning disabilities to get a paid job.

You can find this guide 'Getting a Job' on our website.

Learning Disability Awareness Training

We are running Learning Disability Awareness Training at our office in London.

This training is for anyone who wants to know more about learning disabilities and how they affect people.

We work with people with learning disabilities to run this training.

The training is being held on Friday 6th June 2014.

For more information see our website or contact us on fpld@fpld.org.uk.

Growing Older

Making sure people with learning disabilities have good support as they grow older

People with learning disabilities are living longer.

The support a person needs may change as they grow older.

The Association for Real Change have written a guide for organisations who provide support to people with learning disabilities.

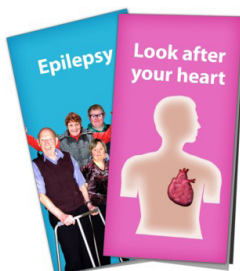

This is called the Real Change Challenge and helps organisations think about how to make support better for older people.

The Foundation for People with Learning Disabilities has written an Evaluation Toolkit so that organisations can check how well they are doing.

You can find the Challenge and the Evaluation Toolkit on our website.

Health Stones Bulletin

Keeping people up to date on the health of people with learning disabilities

This is part of the work of the UK Health and Learning Disability Network (a group who help share information).

This Network is managed by Janet Cobb and hosted by the Foundation for People with Learning Disabilities.

It helps staff and families to find out the latest information about the health of people with learning disabilities.

We will now be writing a weekly email to people who are members of the UK Health and Learning Disability Network to tell them about new information and events.

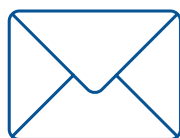

If you want to be a member of this Network please go to our website where there is a form to fill in.
